

MEET THE MENTORS

Peter Kerr, Cameron Kerr

Why do you think the BCO is important? Why did you join?

The BCO plays a vital role in setting best practices for the office sector across the UK. It brings together professionals from all corners of the industry to shape high-quality, sustainable and future-proof workspaces. I joined to be part of this collaborative effort and to support the evolution of office design and workplace strategy, particularly here in Scotland.

What made you want to become a mentor?

I've been fortunate to receive support throughout my career, so becoming a mentor is all about paying that back. Having started at the lowest level and progressed to company ownership - and experienced everything in between - I understand the challenges and aspirations mentees face. That breadth of experience allows me to offer practical, empathetic guidance.

What has been your biggest achievement as a mentor?

As a mentor in business, one of the most satisfying moments is when a mentee tells you they've implemented one of your suggestions and it worked for them. Knowing that your advice has had a tangible, positive impact on their development is incredibly rewarding.

What are you most proud of in your career?

I'm most proud of the impact I've had when clients are genuinely engaged in my ideas and choose to implement them. Seeing those concepts come to life and deliver value is a powerful reminder of the difference we can make through thoughtful design and strategic input.

What is the most useful piece of advice you've received during your career?

You get out of a career what you put in. Being successful takes effort working hard and learning as much as you can will take you where you want to go. That mindset has shaped my approach and continues to guide me.
